

The Extra Chronicles of Lunar

By Davidfish

Short Stories about Lunar's extra encounters

Book Information

This document contains miniature stories about Lunar and his encounters with new friends and some of his friends' friends. They are from the DLC of the LunarVerse game. These stories are to provide more in depth detail about their character and personality.

Story I: A Harmonic Melony

We were just chilling over at the Mojang in Delta Earth. Solar and I wanted to try something new in the metaverse. Oona walked us inside, but then we saw a little creature carrying a cookie across the floor.

“Haha, who is that?” asked Solar.

“Oh dear. Sorry about that. Let me call a friend real quick,” Oona dialed in a number, “Hey, yeah it’s me. Your little friend stole a cookie. Alright thanks,”
Soon enough, someone jumped down from the Mojang balcony and picked up the little critter.

“Swiftwing! I only told you to grab me a pencil, not a cookie too!” said the person. The creature looked a little disappointed, but was fed something else right after.

“Lunar, Solar, I would like to introduce you to Melony. She is a close friend of mine I met in music class,” said Oona.

“Nice to meet you! Who is your cute little pet?” asked Solar.

“Oh this is Swiftwing! He looks a bit funky but I found this poor guy near a nuclear plant that was probably abandoned. He sure loves running around and grabbing things though,” said Melony.

“He is pretty agile. It’s nice to meet someone new!” I said.

“Anyways Melony, I was gonna test something in the metaverse with these guys,” said Oona.

That seemed to capture Swiftwing’s interest. He started getting all excited and stuff.

“Oh that sounds neat. Swiftwing seems to really like that idea,” said Melony.

“Do you want to come with us? It would be cool showing him around the area,” I said.

“I mean if Oona thinks it’s ok then I’d love to,” said Melony.

“I don’t see why not. We can see what happens when we bring in outside critters inside the metaverse too,” said Oona.

“Woo hoo! Thanks Oona,” she said.

We all went to the main metaverse room. I wanted to rift inside instead of using a headset though. After loading it up, we all hopped through.

“I just realized, I’ve never physically been inside the metaverse before like this. It’s pretty sick,” said Oona.

“Swiftwing loves the vibes here. All digital and stuff!” said Melony.

“What did you guys want to try here anyways?” asked Oona.

“I wanted to see if we could bring our Minecraft friends here somehow,” I said. I pulled out the rift gun and created an official portal to the Minecraft world.

“You guys stay here, I’ll be back,” I said.

I went through and managed to find Alex. She already knew about the plan. A few moments later we were back. Alex was standing in the metaverse with us.

“Woah! This is neat. Hi Oona,” said Alex.

“Heyy. Damn Lunar, this really is crazy,” said Oona.

“I don’t think I’ve ever met you before. You have one cute pet!” said Alex.

“Yeah haha. I’m Melony, and this is Swiftwing,” said Melony.

“He seems interested in this cookie I was eating,” said Alex.

Swiftwing climbed onto Alex and took the cookie from her. Then he started to run off.

“Swiftwing no!” said Melony.

It was too late, Swiftwing was running into the busy city of the metaverse.

“We gotta go pick him up!” she said.

We left in a hurry after him, but Swiftwing was really quick. Alex tried reeling him in, but he was pretty agile too.

“Damn Swiftwing has moves!” said Alex.

“Oh yeah, he’s great at getting things for me. But he also runs away with them too!” said Melony.

A few more twists and turns later, we found Swiftwing all alone on some unfinished part of the metaverse. He was surrounded by more metaverse users, but they looked like they wanted to hurt him.

“Oh dear, those are thugs. If they touch him it might be bad,” said Oona.

“No!” said Solar.

“I don’t exactly want to resort to violence but what can we do?” I asked.

“Leave it to me,” said Melony.

Melony pulled out another creature from her pocket. It was small at first, but then started to grow in size. It was another creature. Cute, but looked deadly.

“Howler, go get them,” she told the creature.

Howler started to run out towards the thugs. Melony went to warn the thugs.

“Oh yeah, Monster on the loose!” she said.

They turned their attention away from Swiftwing and onto Howler. Howler dived into all of them, dealing serious damage. They were hurt, but not leaving still. Melony went to pick Howler back up.

“You want more? Here’s more!” said Melony.

Howler went in for another round, and the thugs were long gone after.

“Melony, that was awesome! Shoutout to Howler,” said Alex.

“Yeah. Swiftwing and Howler are my bestest buds. Can’t leave any behind,” said Melony.

“Well aside from that scare, that’s all I wanted to try here. We’re good to go now,” I said.

“Alright I’ll head back too. Nice meeting you Melony!” said Alex.

“You too! I had a blast. Let’s hangout one day,” she said.

With that, we left back home. Those creatures sure were unique. Melony must be a nice caretaker with such reckless pets.

Story II: Sensitive Senses

It was about time I saw this old friend of mine. After high school I haven't really spoken to him, but I did want to catch up for old times sake. His house wasn't too far out of town. The Lunar Storm was more than enough to get there. I knocked and got an answer right after.

"Hey Lunar! How you doing man," said Echo.

"Echo! So good to see you again," I said.

"You look different. Almost metallic even," he said.

"Oh yeah! That's a whole different story. But, I'm AI actually. I was made 300 years from the future," I said.

"Sounds crazy, but I've always known you to be crazy. I wanted to show you something I made in town not too long ago," he said.

"Sure, let's go!" I said.

We both hopped in the car and drove to the building he set in the GPS. Turns out it was a research lab about sound.

"I didn't know you were invested into sound Echo," I said.

"The study of sound is quite fascinating. I do love it. Ever since I've found out I was partially deaf I've become invested," he said.

"Oh I'm sorry to hear about that. But glad that it hasn't affected you too negatively," I said.

I parked somewhere and we headed inside. Echo had a nice little science room setup with all his devices.

"I know you are quite the engineer Lunar, but I got some pretty neat things here too," said Echo.

"Looks impressive. What are they?" I asked.

"My main loadout consists of these sound sensors. With the hard hearing issues I have I need a way to detect intruders. Whenever someone makes a wrong move near these things, they'll pop off! But they are a bit fragile," said Echo.

"Damn! That is really cool. What about this huge sphere?" I asked.

"Ah yes. That's the symphony sphere. A protective force field kinda. It generates shields and pushes intruders away periodically. It's my main line of defense at the lab. People are always trying to steal ideas, or products literally from me," he said.

"That's messed up. But I can say it happens to me and all my other scientist friends too," I replied.